

Liz's Story

This story is about a person with a disability called Liz.

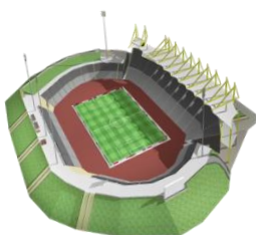

Liz lives in Victoria.

She uses a wheelchair to move around.

Liz loves to go out to watch music shows and sports games.

It can be difficult for Liz to do many activities if the venues are not fully accessible.

Being accessible means a person with a disability can easily get into or use a certain service.

It is important that sports and music venues are accessible.

Liz has done a lot of work speaking up for people with disability.

Changing Places
Transforming Lives

She helped getting Changing Places set up around Victoria.

Changing Places are public bathrooms that have more space.

They also have extra features to support people with disability.

Changing Places
Transforming Lives

Some features found in Changing Places are:

- automatic doors
- ceiling track hoist systems
- privacy screens
- change tables big enough for adults.

Disability
Gateway

Liz likes how the Disability Gateway website has many accessible functions.

Some of these functions are:

- a clear search option

- Easy Read options

- Written versions of videos.

Liz believes that everyone should have the support and access they need to live the life they want.
